MYSTIC SEAPORT MUSEUM • CALL FOR INTERNSHIP APPLICATIONS - 2025

Southeastern New England Educational and Charitable Foundation History

The Southeastern New England Educational and Charitable Foundation (SNEC) was established in December 2016 by the Grills and Jackson families. Many members of the Grills family worked at the Bradford Dying Association (BDA) in the Bradford section of Westerly, RI since the beginning of the 20th century. When the company went bankrupt in the 70's, Mr. Richard Grills, who started there as a machine attendant but by then had become the plant manager, partnered with the former owner's son to restart the company. Together, they would run the mill for the next twenty-five years, employing hundreds and positively impacting the economy of the Greater-Westerly area.

When Mr. Grills retired, he turned his energies toward environmental conservation. He worked with local environmental agencies and donated hundreds of acres of unspoiled land. These donations became the Grills Preserve in Westerly and The Grills Wildlife Sanctuary in Hopkinton, RI; both areas providing hiking access to these environmentally significant areas on the Pawcatuck River.

When BDA ultimately ended operation, a portion of the proceeds were used to establish Southeastern New England Educational and Charitable Foundation. The Foundation's mission is to support students in higher education pursuing studies in Environmental Conservation and Historic Preservation.

Partnership

The Southeastern New England Educational and Charitable Foundation supports college students to encourage experiential learning in environmental conservation and historic preservation. The successful applicant will work with the Mystic Seaport Museum (MSM) as an intern to assist the Museum with projects and activities focused on environmental history and conservation. The Museum will be the director of intern activities and stipend disbursement. This is a full-time internship that will run from June 2 – August 8, 2025. The intern should expect to work onsite at Mystic Seaport Museum for 35 hours/week and should expect to work at least one weekend day. The intern will receive a stipend for their work.

Project:

Mystic Seaport Museum is dedicated to the collection and preservation of American maritime history and culture. The Museum collections include an array of materials such as fine, folk, and decorative arts, navigating instruments, tools, ship's plans, printed and manuscript material, photography, ship models, ship carvings, and small craft. Within these categories, one will find a diverse array of specimens and objects crafted from plant and animal materials. This internship project will concentrate on the identification and research of these pieces.

The 2025 SNEC Summer Science Intern will work three days a week at the Museum's Collections and Research Center, focusing on the documentation of objects with scientific relevance, specifically those in the zoological and botanical categories. Key responsibilities include identifying, describing, and documenting specimens; identifying additional objects in the Museum's General Collections that overlap into the biological or botanical categories; assisting Collections staff in assessing the condition of specimens and identifying those that need rehousing or conservation; and conducting independent research on these objects to highlight their stories and significance.

The remaining two days/week, the intern will work with the Museum's Interpretation Department, interpreting environmental history, conservation, and science for Museum visitors. This work will support the Museum's ongoing commitment to expanding its interpretation of marine science and focus on topics like invasive species, fouling organisms, marine biology, sea level rise, climate change, and more. Projects with the Interpretation Department may include interpreting Museum exhibits, leading public tours, researching and developing new content for tours and talks, and more depending on Department needs and Intern interests.

The intern will also join the wider cohort of Mystic Seaport Museum Summer Interns. As a cohort, interns will participate in common teambuilding activities, professional development sessions, and discussion seminars around emergent topics in the field of public humanities and engagement.

This internship will benefit upper-level undergraduates with an interest in marine biology, science communication, environmental humanities, scientific analysis, and more.
